FALL 2020

Safely Reopening Blaine County Schools

The COVID-19 pandemic has impacted entire communities, states and the world, leaving us all to rethink and change many aspects of our lives. We are on a new journey—something unlike anything we’ve ever seen. The Blaine County School District is faced with an extraordinary challenge that requires individual and collective expertise and inquiry to address the needs of students, families, staff and school communities during this unprecedented time.

As we prepare to reopen our schools this fall, we must recognize that this pandemic validates the important role that schools play in contributing to a healthy community. Our schools and families depend on one another. Our district’s re-entry plan will only be effective through a collaborative effort by all community stakeholders. We must responsibly reduce the spread while keeping students on an educational trajectory to prepare them to be college and career ready upon graduation. Schedules may be impacted, learning may look different, roles may change and operations may be adjusted. These shifts in new educational practices are to keep students learning and growing academically, as well as to keep our community healthy and safe.

It is our desire to have all our students in school at all times, as it is the best format to maximize student learning. However, we also know from our experience last spring that there are times when we will be expected to follow more stringent health practices to protect the health and safety of our children and staff.

On July 21, 2020, the BCSB Board of Trustees approved the following guiding principles for development of a re-entry plan.

- Principle 1: Healthy students and staff should be in school as much as possible.
- Principle 2: Our schools must be as safe as possible for students and staff.
- Principle 3: Teachers should be able to reach students in multiple locations, both synchronously and asynchronously.
- Principle 4: Providing a regular schedule will help our students, families, and staff be as successful as possible in every Plan.
- Principle 5: Teachers need support in this new learning environment.
- Principle 6: Students across the district should have equitable access to learning, regardless of where that learning takes place.
- Principle 7: Simple solutions are usually the best solutions.

This plan will likely EVOLVE with time as we determine the best approach to protect community health while providing our students with the best possible educational experience. Together, we can address the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic and keep the learning process moving forward.

2 Options for BCSD Students

There are two options for attending Blaine County School District (BCSD) schools this year:

1) Attend school in person as much as possible

2) Attend school online at all times

The model for attending school in person will change as the events in our community change.

- All students could be in school at one time, or
- Half of students could attend on a given day while the other half of students learn from home, or
- All students could be learning from home.

This model allows for students to be with their peers as much as possible and works well for students who learn best in person or with frequent support and feedback from the teacher.

The model for attending school online at all times means full-time BCSD students are enrolled in classes with the Idaho Digital Learning Alliance. These students remain enrolled at their BCSD school and their families will receive school newsletters and other updates. Interested students must enroll through their BCSD school by August 31 and commit to IDLA classes for either a full semester or a full year. This model works well for students who are self starters and can regulate their own learning or have significant support at home. If you wish to enroll your child in IDLA, please call your child's school.

Attending School in Person As Much As Possible

Determination of which learning plan we use is based on current local/state conditions and on guidance from the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare and/or South Central Public Health District, CDC, the Idaho State Board of Education and the Blaine County Board of Trustees. Depending on the spread of the outbreak, some schools may have all students attending while other schools may only have half of the students attending or none at all.

School Master Schedules

Each school designates master schedules that may include recess, breaks, handwashing, breakfast, lunch, arrivals/departures, interventions, enrichment, teacher collaboration and communicating with families and students.

Flexibility Is Key

Although we desire to have all our students in school each day, we understand that the health and safety of our community is our top priority and we may be called upon to only have some students in school at a time or all students at home. Please make plans for how your family will manage the need to change schedules when called upon to do so.

What Will the School Day Look Like?

When students can attend school in person, there will be some changes to the school day. These changes include the following:

Students and staff will wear face coverings on the bus, in the school yard, in the hallways, and in classrooms.

When students arrive at school, they will be instructed to wash or sanitize their hands and report directly to their classroom.

Classrooms will have less furniture in them. Reading corners, small-group tables, and many of the extra learning materials will be placed in storage.

Student desks and chairs will be moved as far apart as possible.

Teachers will greet students with a warm welcome and silently screen for possible symptoms of illness.

Students will be excited to see their friends. When in our Half at School model, they will only see half their classmates at school.

Teachers will start the class with morning announcements, the Pledge of Allegiance, a class meeting/circle, a team-building exercise, warm-up activities, etc.

Teachers will engage students in explicit social, emotional learning instruction to support them in developing resilience, self-management, and responsible decision making.

Students will be reminded to take a hand-washing break several times throughout the day.

Students will engage in reading, writing, and discussing grade-level text and topics. They will read a number of new fiction and nonfiction texts (selected by teachers last year). Teachers will provide modeling for students, and then support them as they practice new skills. At least part of these lessons will be online so that students can develop their abilities to learn remotely as well as in person.

Students will eat lunch either in their classroom or the lunchroom. There may be more lunch periods per day so fewer students are eating lunch at a time. Students will have an opportunity to move outdoors, distance from each other, and take a mask break.

Students will engage in problem solving and mathematical thinking. They will think, write and speak like mathematicians. Teachers will provide modeling for students, and then support students as they practice new skills. At least part of the lesson will be online so that students develop their abilities to learn remotely as well as in person.

Students will engage in other content areas according to their schedule for the day (such as music, art, physical education, science, world language).

Students may move around the building much less often than in the past. They may attend four classes per day instead of the traditional seven, or their art teacher may come to their classroom rather than students moving to a different room.

Students will prepare to go home, making sure they have their Chromebook and any other materials they may need for learning from home.

Teachers will tell their students how much they will miss them until they see them again, remind them of their online assignments, and tell them to have a good evening.

Students will board the bus with their face cloth on and sit in their assigned seat until they reach their stop. Other students will walk or bike home, or get in their parent's car to go home.

Online Learning Through IDLA

The Idaho Digital Learning Academy (IDLA) is available for K-12 BCSD students and their families. IDLA is an online option for students who need to learn from home for an extended period.

ELEMENTARY STUDENTS

(considered K-6 in IDLA)

will have the option of four hours of daily language arts and math instruction, meeting the state's attendance requirements and the district's curriculum focus during this pandemic. The BCSD Teaching & Learning Department will work with families to register students in IDLA. Parents are expected to virtually attend an orientation the week before courses begin. The first day of class is August 24, 2020.

SECONDARY STUDENTS

will work with their school's counselors to determine which courses are needed in each student's schedule to meet expected course and credit requirements. The counselor(s) at the student's school will work with the student and family to register students who decide to enroll in IDLA courses. There is a course catalog available to help with this decision-making process available on the IDLA website (<https://www.idahodigitallearning.org/>). Courses taken through IDLA, if successfully completed, will meet course requirements and be placed on the student's BCSD transcript.

If families choose to learn fully online through IDLA this year, they are still considered BCSD students. Students will not lose their enrollment status at the school for which they would be attending. They are fully eligible to return when their family feels it is safe enough to do so. Secondary students are encouraged to return at the start of a new semester in order to not lose any course credits.

Students must register through their school or the district for IDLA courses. Please contact the school's principal if you are interested in this online option.
